By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.
Paul in his missionary journeys encountered much opposition, and persecution from his fellow Jews, who were as much opposed to the new Christian way as he himself had once been.
But sooner or later he was bound to come into collision with the paganism, and licentiousness, of the cities in which he preached.
The clash came in Ephesus, which was the capital city of the Roman province of Asia, and an important place on the great trade route between Rome and the East. It was an excellent center from which Paul could carry on his missionary work, and he remained in the city for nearly three years. The Epistle to the Ephesians reveals how deeply rooted was his work there; and his intense love for the Ephesian disciples is manifested in the beautiful prayer for them in Ephesians 3:14-21.
At first Paul seems to have met with little opposition. Pagan religionists and authorities were probably sure enough of themselves not to be troubled about some new, small, and strange religious group.
The clash when it came was not really religious, but arose over economic gain and self-interest, with the religious outcry as a pretext. The goddess, "whom all Asia and the world worshipped" (verse 27), here called Diana, usually represented as a huntress, was actually Artemis, the goddess of fertility. In Ephesus, it was said, she had long won many proselytes to her faith from the pagan world.

friends. They set fire to rugs, clothes and other guests with no tools but cigarettes and matches. One son-in-law built a fire tower in the living room and put your wife atop it.
The "switch-hitter" — He tries to watch two ball games at once, tuning in on both channels and deftly missing the exciting moments in both games.
The "standee" — Can't be muddled to sleep. Always cruises in front of the screen just as the program reaches a climax.
The "chair arm-dweller" — Invariably perches on the arm of the weakest chair, and guaranteed to break it during the telecast.
The engineer — Toughest of all to come with. Tries to rebuild the set in the middle of every program. Unfortunately, he rarely electrocutes himself — Just wrecks the set.
The "dribbler" — Has to spill things. You can trail him around the room by the ashes, drinks, food and books he drops.
The "incurable" — The addict who insists on the television set being on every second and completely ignores other guests who want to talk.
The "antenna-nut" — Leans out the window, swinging the aerial to get better reception. Refuses to let go and fall to the pavement.
The "vandal" — Can be counted on to break six glasses and a plate — even if they were made of iron. If he doesn't break them himself, he cleverly plants them where other guests will trip over them.
The "insomniac" — He is polite and well-mannered, but he stays until the last television station is off the air and then wants to stay up and discuss the programs until daylight. The only way to get rid of him is to run out of liquor.
Well, there they are, fifteen charming reasons why the proud new owner of a television set should answer each knock on his door with a baseball bat in his hands.
It's the only way to keep out video vipers.
because of its superior morality, and we can well understand how many in that licentious city would turn to the better way that Paul preached.
The silversmiths who made shrines for the goddess became alarmed about their loss of trade. Among themselves they said, "Our craft is in danger," but to the public they said, "Diana, the goddess of the Ephesians." Led by Demetrius, they stirred up a mob riot against Paul's companions. It was a typical mob, and about to become violent, when a man stepped forth whose name is unknown but whose fame is enshrined on the sacred page. It was the town clerk of Ephesus, claiming them, talking common sense, and reminding them that they were likely to get into trouble with the Roman authorities. He, too, worshipped Diana, but paganism has its sincere souls who live up to the best that they know.

He was profoundly religious, but also gay and charming in manner. As a Swedish Red Cross official he played a most active role in three wartime prisoner of war exchanges with Germany. He made many hazardous trips into Germany, some during the heaviest bombings of Berlin.

position views in the matter. There is nothing fanciful about the French fear of a strong, revived Germany.
If there is any indication that Germany is being built up at France's expense, the present precarious balance of French politics may be destroyed. Any agreement by a moderate French government to such a plan, or anything approaching such a plan, would give both the Communists and the de Gaullists a strong talking point. There is a strong possibility that under such circumstances, one of the other of those extreme parties would take over.
Now, the United States does not want such a situation to develop any more than it wants an economically impotent Germany. Either a Communist government in France or an extreme-right government that would attract the opposition to the Red camp would be a staggering and probably fatal blow to the Marshall Plan.
America needs the friendship of France. The cause of peace demands a Europe in which France, not Germany or Russia, is the strongest power. Yet it is hard to see how European recovery and prosperity can be restored speedily if Germany, with her geographical position, natural resources and industrial development, does not make a major contribution to their restoration.
The situation presents the American government with a strong challenge to the wisdom and statesmanship of all concerned.

animals.
They saw the huge boa eat live chickens — feet, feathers and all — and one night the snake digested a small pig.
But the farmers observed that as animals go, "chickens and pigs ain't much." They goaded Page into claiming finally that his snake could "kill a horse and eat it."
The farmers, countered with "Moby Dick," and the match was on.
The tobacco farmers, loaded with money after selling their most successful crop in years, backed the mule to a man. They reportedly had a pot of $5,000 ready to bet on the long-eared beast.
Page and his carnival people were said to be ready to meet the wager.
Meanwhile, there were reports that a group of Walnut Cove citizens would seek to halt the fight by court order at the last minute, invoking North Carolina's law against cruelty to animals.
The famed "coon on a log" fights between a coon chained to a log and a succession of hunting dogs were banned here recently under the same law.
Sheriff Chester J. Hilsabeck, Jr., said he had "heard there was going to be a fight" and added that he was investigating. He did not indicate whether or not any action would be taken to halt it.

Small living bodies unlike other forms were discovered by Howard Taylor Ricketts in 1909 while he was working on Rocky Mountain spotted fever. A year later Ricketts died during his investigations on a related disease called typhus, thus becoming a martyr to science. The tiny bodies he discovered are now called rickettsiae. One of the diseases which they cause is called typhus or jail fever. Typhus is prevalent under conditions of overcrowding and filth and is usually carried from person to person by the body louse.

Other Disease Groups
The important group of diseases caused by rickettsiae is spotted fevers, of which Rocky Mountain spotted fever is the best known example in this country. This disease is carried by at least two different kinds of ticks, the wood tick and the dog tick.

A condition called Flevere boutonneuse, or Marseille fever, which is prevalent in the region of the Mediterranean and Black Seas, is another rickettsial disease. The most curious of this group is called "Q Fever," which was first described in Australia and which appears to be related to but not identical with the spotted fever of Rocky Mountain spotted fever.

During the war many of our military personnel stationed in the south and western Pacific suffered a disease properly called Tsutsugamushi disease, but often referred to as scrub typhus. The disease can be contracted in many parts of the southeastern Pacific and Japan. The chief animal which serves as a reservoir is a field mouse.

Reasonably good vaccines to prevent typhus and Rocky Mountain spotted fever have been prepared. A chemical compound called para-aminobenzoic acid, seems promising in the treatment of several of the diseases in this group. Much more research, however, must be conducted on the several diseases caused by rickettsiae.

THE STORY: Dying in the Indian desert, British secret agent Hilary Shonstone feels a desperate need to get back to England and to Nuns Farthing, his family home. He doesn't know the house has been let and that dreamy, 17-year-old Sabrina, whom he has never met, has adopted his old room and eagerly awaits his return. Hilary does return to England and to Nuns Farthing—after death. When he sees Sabrina, he realizes she is the girl he would have loved if he had lived. Hilary's room is locked after George, his brother, brings word of his death. Sabrina breaks into Mrs. Pilton, house housekeeper, unlocks the room again for her. Sabrina knows then that Hilary has come home. But Aunt Effie, beginning to feel a strangeness in the house, is upset when she finds out Sabrina is once more using the room. "I must take her away," she tells Mrs. Pilton.

XXV
"If I might say so," began Mrs. Pilton, and the quiet words were Effie's arm. "You ought to think twice before you try to take Miss Sabrina right out of the house. It might be dangerous to interfere."

"Dangerous to—?" That left Aunt Effie very neatly speechless. "I didn't mind very much who a man she would probably never meet," she floundered. "But now it's as though she had—fallen in love with some sort of—ghost! You should have told me about this sooner! You should have warned me!"

"I thought the best way would be to pretend we didn't notice anything at all."

"But that's impossible! It can't go on! Where would it lead to?"

"She might outgrow it. Or he might go away. In any case, it isn't a thing you can decide about."

"I have already decided!" said Aunt Effie obstinately. "We shall leave the house at once. I shall speak to her father. We shall take her back to London as soon as possible."

"I suppose you must do as you think best," said Mrs. Pilton drily, and turned away as though dismissed. "Good-night."

Aunt Effie marched with resolute footsteps across the hall and tapped on her brother's study door.

"Alan, I must speak to you."

He looked up at her over his spectacles, his pen poised. "Yes, Effie—what is it now?"

"She came in and sat down on the edge of the chair at the end of the desk, facing him, her hands pressed tight together in her lap."

"Alan—I've just had the fright of my life. We've got to leave this house at once. We've got to go back to London."

In spite of his habitual pre-occupation with the case for agency commencing itself to him. "My dear Effie—" he began, looking his pen down.

"Alan, I'm worried about Sabrina. It's that room upstairs—the one that belonged to the

Berlin Crisis to Be Key UN Issue

Paris, Sept. 17—(AP)—The three-month-old Berlin crisis promised today to become the key issue of the United Nations general assembly convening next Tuesday.

The continued Russian blockade of Berlin leaves the Western powers with no other alternative than to appeal to the United Nations. The western powers consider the blockade a "direct and complete violation" of the UN charter.

The three Western foreign ministers are expected to meet here early next week and, having a last minute concession by the Russians, to agree to place the case formally before the UN.

U. S. Secretary of State George C. Marshall and British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin will arrive Monday, with Foreign Minister Robert Schuman, who will be able to decide personally on their next step.

It will be the first time since the Berlin crisis started that the three ministers themselves have been able to talk together. All summer they have negotiated their common policy by cable and through assistants.

DOROTHY DIX Male Flirt

Dear Miss Dix: I have a boy friend to whom I am engaged and we plan to get married next year. He is very handsome and lots of girls flirt with him. I am not jealous but when he hears about a girl he keeps on saying: "She is very pretty. Why don't you introduce me to her?" Or if we meet a beautiful woman he stares at her for five minutes. If he thinks an actress is gorgeous, he goes back to the show over and over again. I do my best to look indifferent but it gets on my nerves because I am no beauty myself.

Do you think that a man who is really in love can act that way?

LEATRICE
Answer: I think a man who is one of the most contemptible of the human species, and that any girl who marries one is simply going out of her way to hunt for trouble. For no wife can be happy with a husband whom she does not trust, and certainly she can have no faith in a man who is ogling every good looking girl he sees and making near-love to her.

Perpetual Insult
A wife would not need to be jealous to resent such conduct in her husband. The indignity of it could be an insult that would keep her nerves raw and her temper on edge. So my earnest advice to you is to break off with this lady-killer and have nothing more to do with him. You are a nice girl. Save yourself for some worthy man who will not be making eyes at every bobby-soxer who crosses his path.

Dear Miss Dix: I have a 10-year-old daughter who expects to be married shortly. My husband deserted me when my daughter was a baby and ever since I have worked very hard to support her and myself. I have been able to save up only a couple of hundred dollars.

The trouble is my daughter wants a big church wedding, followed by a large reception. I promised to buy all of her wedding clothes, but she expects me to take all the money I have saved to meet the rest of the expenses. This I refuse to do and she has been furious over it and spoken very cruelly to me. I think if she wants a show wedding she should wait and work and save her money for it, and not expect it of me, after I have sacrificed so much in her behalf, especially since I would not broke over it. What is your advice?

MRS. C. G. K.
Answer: My advice to you is to stand pat and positively refuse to let your daughter run you into debt for an expensive wedding. However, I fear that by the time your daughter settles you up with her tears and breaks down your resistance by her reproaches at your not giving her the kind of wedding that rich girls have you will give in. So many mothers do, and let daughters take the very bread out of their mouths to gratify a desire to make a splash.

Can't you make her understand that when we do things beyond our income, we do not rouse the envy and admiration of those who know us? On the contrary, we make ourselves ridiculous and a laughing stock for the public. Everybody will respect your daughter if she is married in a simple, inexpensive white gown, but they will mock her if she walks up the aisle trailing satin and orange blossoms. There is dignity in living within our means, no matter how small

Marmaduke Man Convicted of Murder

Piggott, Sept. 17—(AP)—Darrell Ogles, 22, Marmaduke, Ark., has been convicted of first degree murder and sentenced to life imprisonment for the fatal shooting of Tom Green, Rector City marshal.

The verdict was returned by a Clay circuit court jury which deliberated an hour after receiving the case yesterday afternoon. Green was shot fatally June 25 when he attempted to arrest Darrell Ogles and his brother Leon, 28, who also is charged with first degree murder and is to be tried later.

They are, but there is shame in running up bills for finery for which we never will be able to pay.

Fair Enough

By Westbrook Pegler
Copyright, 1947
By King Features Syndicate.

New York, Sept. 16—While the leading characters of the fur and leather industry are on the subject of Communist infiltration and extortion, a little frankness from an observer who does not pretend to be particularly friendly might contribute to a good result. The reason why I am not particularly friendly to the fur industry is that the railroad industry and banks got a good tanning each in the line up as the Communist did them good. I wasn't particularly friendly to them.

The fur industry, which has a turnover of about one billion dollars a year in the city of New York alone, has never been stood in the line up as the Communist did them good. I wasn't particularly friendly to them.

Without preliminary, we can concede that the fur industry is more or less a unit politically and very much more so than less. It is, in all but the most formal sense, a lodge of the New Deal and the American Legion organized to contain veterans in a given locality and with a common daily interest.

For years and years, since Arnold Rothstein rented out goons to beat up the adversaries of his clients in the fur industry, with a few professional pugilists, industry and this district have been plagued by the Communists.

Ben Gold, the boss of the union and of the industry itself, is a member of the Communist party, trying to get the Communist party, trying to get the Communist party, trying to get the Communist party.

Some of the employers have complained before recent sessions of the House committee on labor that the workers have been absolute slaves to a few Communists in the higher positions of the rank and file.

This is a reversal of the old inequality in which the bosses got control of the unions. They were called company unions. Many of the fur companies, on the other hand, are union companies. They are Communist companies.

They can accommodate manufacturers who are hard up with loans or with labor concessions to the Communists in the higher positions of the rank and file.

The fur industry is so nearly saturated with communism that the business men on the employing side are actually helpless. It is really surprising and a credit to the gentleman that a few spokesmen have had the courage to give testimony which certainly will make things bad for them in business henceforth.

As to the business men in the fur industry who have strung along with the Communists, we have already laid down the law for them. We did that at Nuremberg. They say that they had to submit to the Communist union or go broke. That is what the Nazis said, and it didn't do them a bit of good. Their rank and file employees may say that they had to join the party and help Hitler or starve. That is almost perfect.

American Flag Race Hottest in History

By CARL LUNDQUIST
New York, Sept. 17.—(UP)—If there is anything hotter in baseball today than the American League pennant race it is the spot being uncomfortably occupied by friendly mid-mannered Bucky Harris whose New York Yankees team might not get big.

Why the fans, the sportswriters and perhaps some of the Yankee officials themselves have chosen this time to harass Harris is hard to figure out, but the whispering campaign against him has reached the point where it is a shouting campaign.

Harris who reluctantly went back into baseball to manage the Yankees, giving up a nice front office job because no other person was available for the field, directed them to a pennant in his first season and has had them in contention throughout the current campaign.

But the Yankee fans and the organization itself have become so used to championships that any losing season doesn't satisfy them. So despite injuries, failure of key performers to measure up to what they did last year, and a general improvement of other clubs in the race, Harris still has the Yankees in the pinning.

While the rumors were flying the Yankees battled to an even break with the Tigers at Detroit, dropping the first game of a double bill, 2 to 1, and winning the second one, 4 to 1. Joe DiMaggio hit his 300th big league homer and his 36th of the season to spoil Freddy Hutchinson's shutout in the first game. No other active big league player has that many homers.

In the meantime, Lefty Joe Wood, one of the Yankee "children" pitched five innings of scoreless relief ball and added a two-run triple as he gained credit for his fifth victory.

The Boston Red Sox lost a night game to the Browns, 3 to 1, at St. Louis, so the Yankees could have gained a tie for first place if they had won the first game of that twin bill. As it is, the New Yorkers are one game away.

Larry Doby's grand-slam home run in the ninth inning gave the Indians a 6 to 3 win over Washington at Cleveland and left them two-and-a-half games out of first place.

In the somewhat more tepid National League race, the second place Pirates and the third place Dodgers each picked up a half game on the leading Braves although both clubs seemed to be fighting losing battles. The Pirates topped the Giants, 10 to 6, with a right apoplexy in New York that included triples by Danny Murtagh, Ralph Kiner, and Ed Beckman.

The Dodgers made 15 hits in their 12 to 9 victory over the Reds at Brooklyn. Marty Beckley got four hits and Jackie Robinson drove in four runs with a double and triple. Hank Sauer hit a grand slam homer and Ken Burkhardt, Cincinnati relief pitcher, also homered.

There were no other games scheduled.

Lid Lifts on College Grid Contests

By BEN PHLEGAR
New York, Sept. 17.—(UP)—The lid lifts just a crack on the college football season this weekend. Popping out are the first games of three major conferences, a pair of intersectional affairs, a good Southern scrap and a whole host of other games.

Much of the action centers on the West Coast. The Rose Bowl game, the University of Southern California entertain the University of Utah at Los Angeles tonight. Tomorrow the Pacific Coast conference opens with Oregon State at U. C. L. A. and Idaho at Oregon State. Santa Clara will be at California and San Jose State at Stanford in other Saturday games.

National Pro League Play Gets Underway

New York, Sept. 17.—(UP)—The National Football League opens its 29th season tonight in Boston, three weeks and 12 games after the first kickoff in the rival All-America Conference.

The initial attraction matches the Green Bay Packers against the Boston Yanks in Fenway Park with the Packers favored. Jim Tye of Oklahoma is among the newcomers in the Yankee lineup.

The All-America Conference also has a game tonight. Cleveland's champion Browns meet the revived Chicago Rockets in Soldier field.

The surprising Baltimore Colts made it two in a row last night over the Eastern division champion New York Yankees. This time the score was 27 to 14 as Billy Hillenbrand and Y. A. Tittle did most of the damage.

With Baltimore's claim to Eastern honors, the Western division race still is wide open. San Francisco, undefeated in both exhibition and conference play, takes on Los Angeles in San Francisco Sunday.

Bobcats Go to Prescott for Game Tonight

Hope's Bobcats, following a week of ironing out mistakes which cropped up in the opening game, will journey to Prescott tonight for a game with the Curley Wolves.

The Bobcats are heavy favorites to win and Coach Tollett, probably will play his substitutes most of the way and the game should be more even. Of course, the Wolves could be tough, but on a basis of past performances it is expected the contest will run true to hope.

Accompanying the team will be a large Hope delegation and the High School band.

Yerger Tigers to Scrimmage Today at 4:30

The Yerger High School football team will engage in a game scrimmage this afternoon beginning at 4:30 p.m.

With only five lettermen returning, Coach Brooks will take the position of an observer in order to select the most capable material. The squad will be divided into A and B groups and will be under the direction of F. D. Calvin and M. Walkins. The prospects so far are in the line where but one starter returns, James Wright, subcaptain and center is back to fill that spot. Leroy Davis, tackle, and Samuel Shaw, guard, complete the list of linemen that lettered. Among the linemen that have shown promise are Willie Harper, Theodis Palmer, Lonnie Brown, Robert Davis, Eura Covington, Henry Palmer, Henry Scoggins, Bobbie Ray, Aaron McFadden, Alvin Cooper and J. T. McPherson.

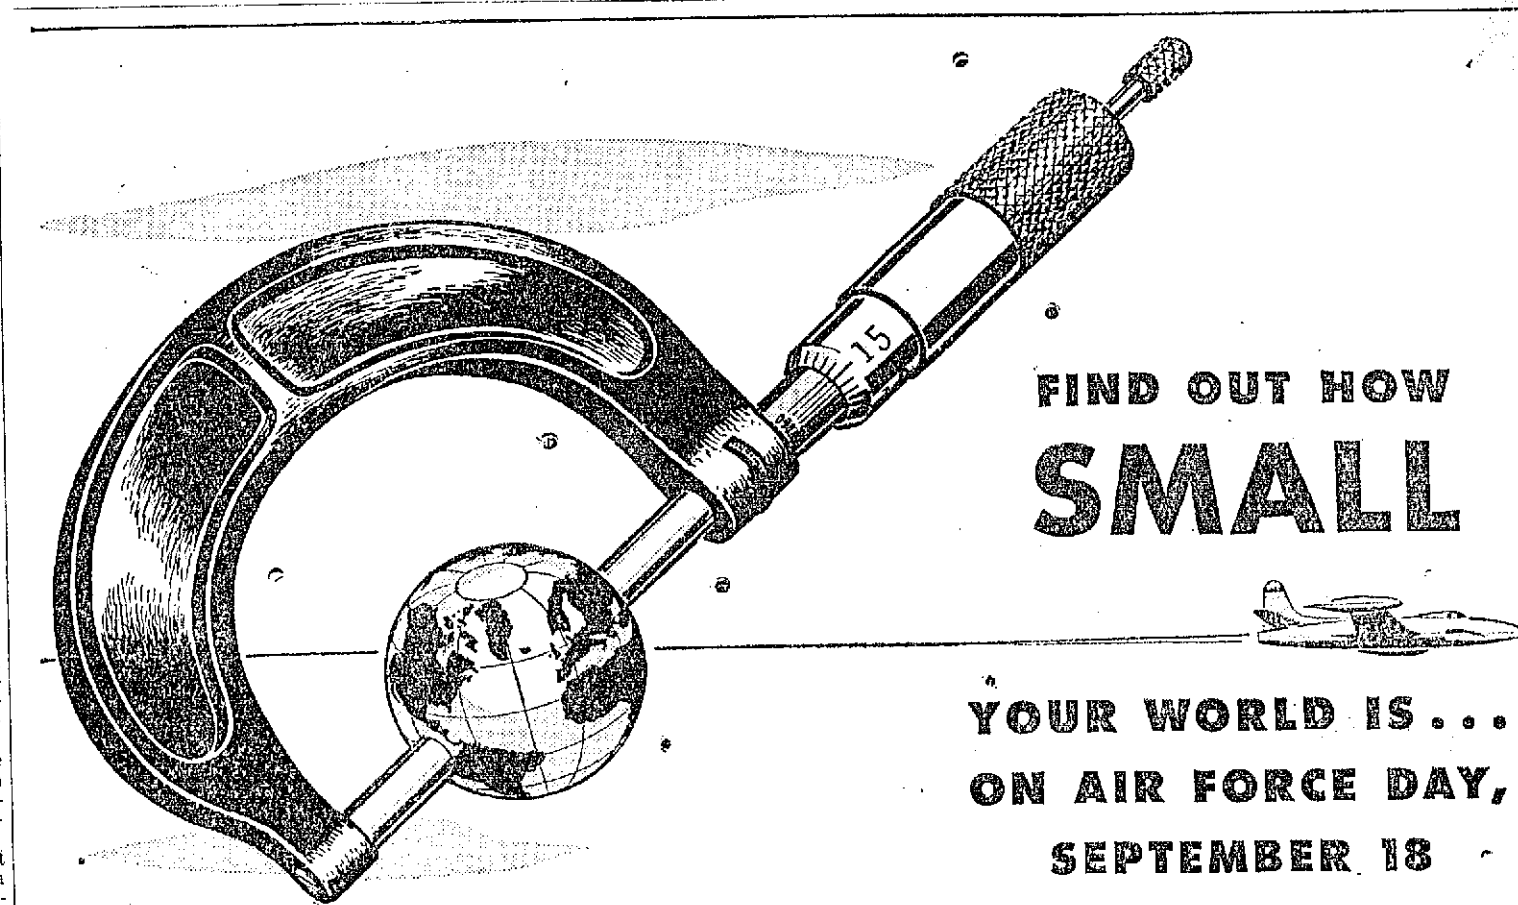

Leading the list of backs is Captain Chester Jordan, Quarterback from last year and Willie Palmer, an alternate at wingback will take over the back position vacated by Edward Stuart's graduation. James Moore, a squadman last year will attempt to fill the shoes of Ralph Palmer. Moore is a power runner, but lacks the speed that Palmer has. Other promising backs are Hoover Turner, Burne Stuart, Leah Stuart, A. G. Freeman, Richard Davis, L. C. Cook, J. B. Modisett, and Milton Burton.

The Tigers will open the season Friday of next week with Idabel, Oklahoma, at Idabel. The season's schedule will be announced later.

Do you know what it needs in men and material to maintain adequate Air Power?

Every American can find out—and get to know your AIR FORCE BETTER—on Air Force Day. You'll discover there's something you can do for America's Air Power.

First, and most important, is for you to learn the facts. Literature will be available at Air Force Day exhibits at Air Force Bases, at National Guard Armories, Recruiting Stations and many other places.

If you are a young man from 17 to 34, you'll find that the Air Force offers you splendid training and education, with the opportunity to specialize in skills that can lead to a worthwhile career in aviation. If you are 20 to 26½, single, and have had two years of college or the equivalent, the Air Force offers you the world's finest flight training as an Aviation Cadet.

If you are still in college, you can join the Air R.O.T.C. Or, as a civilian, you can join the Air National Guard. Veterans can enlist or join the Air Force Reserve.

Watch your newspapers for the schedule of Air Force Day events and make a point of attending. If that is not possible, at least stop in and pick up a copy of the special Air Force Day pamphlet, "KNOW YOUR AIR FORCE BETTER," at your U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force Recruiting Station.

'The Best Years of Our Lives' Opens Sunday at the Saenger

Top Cast in Rialto Feature on Sunday

The "Best Years of Our Lives," a film that won Academy awards, will play at the Saenger theater three days starting Sunday.

The picture, one that nobody should miss, stars Myrna Loy, Frederic March, Dana Andrews, Teresa Wright, Virginia Mayo and many other well-known stars.

Republic's eagerly awaited "Old Los Angeles," starring William Elliott, Joan Carroll, Catherine McLeod and Joseph Schildkraut, opens Sunday at the Rialto theatre.

The stellar trio so outstanding as stars of "The Fabulous Texan" is teamed again by popular director, Elliott. The long-time favorite, Joseph Schildkraut, is added to make this a four-star picture, literally and figuratively speaking.

The glamorous days of the early Los Angeles furnish the background for the plot, set in 1948. Elliott is a young Missouri frontier marshal who journeys to California to join his brother in gold prospecting. Upon his arrival, he learns that his brother has been murdered by one of the outlaw ring which controls the city. A righteous vengeance to track down the assassin becomes the dominating factor of the Missouri's life.

The first of his top suspects is charming but ruthless Johnny McLeach, a role which Joan Carroll brings to life realistically. The second suspect is gambler Lois Savardin, played with his customary finesse by Joseph Schildkraut. Lastly is a lovely singer and dancer, delightfully portrayed by Catherine McLeod.

The investigation is tense throughout. It is complicated by one unexpected event after another, and then by the machinations of a misguided Mexican girl, played by Estelita Rodriguez. The plot proceeds to build up to an exciting climax in which the outlaw responsible for the city's rampant lawlessness pays for his crimes.

Producer-director Joseph Kane, an old and able hand at this type of action movie, has outdone himself on every score. "Old Los Angeles" is heartily recommended to the family audiences because it weaves together educational values and wholesomeness without sacrificing an iota of enjoyment or diversion.

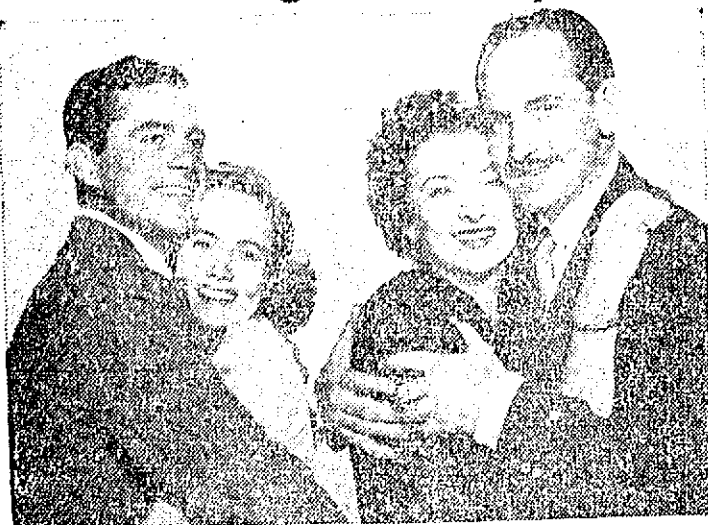

Strengthening of Arkansas Motor Laws Recommended

Little Rock, Sept. 15 —(AP)—Strengthening of Arkansas' motor vehicle laws was recommended today by the National Safety Council.

Don Hill of Chicago field representative of the national council, told the Arkansas Safety Council at a meeting here today that the state should:

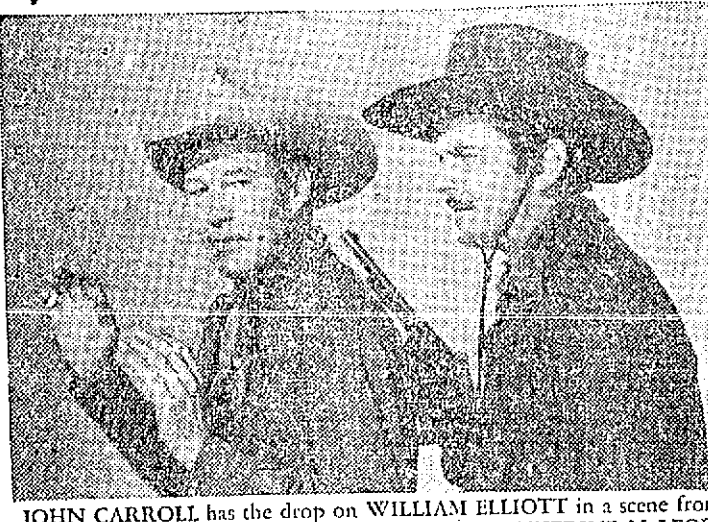

- (1) Place full responsibility for enforcing a motor vehicle operators' uniform code under one agency instead of several as it is at present;
- (2) Revise laws to make chemical tests for alcohol in the blood

Hill said that by spending $700,000 a year on a safety program, Arkansas could save up to 100 lives and $1,500,000 in property damage annually.

He suggested that Arkansas should employ a full-time evening instructor in safety work to bring the best to back away embarrassed to give his unwilling funds.

The Arkansas Safety Council, Council Bluffs, La., where Wilson, who is blind, rested here today on his hitchhike trip across the continent to New York for an operation he hopes will restore his sight.

Clarence Peddicord, 30, set out on his hazardous journey a week ago from his home at Portland, Ore.

Besides his white cane, he carried a battered case and kept a weekly supply of food in a paper bag. In his wallet were $7 and pictures of his wife and children, whom he has never seen.

The food was half gone by the time Peddicord reached here. His funds had shrunk to 92 cents. But his determination was unwavering.

"I have everything to gain and nothing to lose," he said. "I'm sure the worst is over."

Peddicord lost his sight 11 years ago in a refrigeration explosion. In 1933 a New York specialist performed a preliminary operation and told him to return in a year for a cornea graft.

But when the year was up, he didn't have the money for the trip. He had married, meantime, and he and his wife, Dorothy, 25, had two girls. Peddicord supported them by selling brooms door-to-door.

That made him all the more anxious to regain his sight. He wanted to be able to see his family. At last he decided to wait no longer. He gathered together all his funds he could and set out on his trip for the East.

The trip hasn't been easy. Peddicord hasn't carried a sign. He hands by the edge of the highway and waves his arms when he hears cars or trucks approaching.

Once he stood for seven hours in an unknown road. But several times he got out of his money buying gas for one motorist who was stuck in a jam. Another time he was nearly dragged down a bus and driver in safety work to bring the best to back away embarrassed to give his unwilling funds.

He got his best break outside Council Bluffs, La., where Wil-

Farm Cash Receipts Above 1947

Farmers' cash receipts during the first seven months of 1948 were above those of a year ago, but production costs were up even more. As a result, the net income of farmers for the first half of 1948 probably was below that of the same period a year ago.

What does this mean to farm families in Hempstead County?

Home Demonstration Agent Lorraine Blackwood reminds farm families that with higher costs emphasis should still be placed on planning for all-out food production and avoiding debts.

Recent restrictions on installment buying passed by the summer session of Congress are aimed to help families avoid heavy indebtedness, she explains.

The Federal Reserve Board in an August report estimated that American families are saving less this year than last. The Board also estimated that more than a fourth of the families surveyed had spent more money than they made.

"These two findings of the Federal Reserve Board should warn farm families of the importance of carefully planning the expenditures of the family income," Mrs. Blackwood states.

McGrath Raps Tactics in California

By JOSEPH NOLAN
United Press Staff Correspondent

Democratic National Chairman J. Edward McGrath today accused the Republicans of resorting to "un-American" tactics to prevent Californians from hearing President Truman speak.

McGrath cited the case of Los Angeles where Republicans have engaged the huge Hollywood bowl for two nights — the night Gov. Thomas E. Dewey will speak and the night Mr. Truman is scheduled to talk.

As a result, Democrats have had to transfer their rally to a smaller stadium. Republicans explained they needed the bowl for "lighting rehearsals" the night the president is in town.

McGrath said the Republicans' conduct is reprehensible and "un-American." He added that despite GOP efforts Mr. Truman will be heard by "the plain people," wherever he speaks.

The president leaves Washington by train tomorrow and makes his first formal speech Saturday at a plowing contest in Dexter, Ia. He speaks in Los Angeles next Thursday. Dewey will appear there the following day.

While the GOP standard bearer prepared to get out from Albany, N. Y., on Sunday, his vice presidential running mate Earl Warren was already on the campaign trail. Speaking in Reno, Nev., Warren praised Dewey as a man "able to use his head as well as his heart in the interests of good and fair government."

He also pledged himself to work for a bigger and better conservation program for the west.

Warren makes his first major address tonight at Salt Lake City, Utah. This will be followed by 24 other speeches and nearly 60 platform appearances during a month-long tour of the nation.

From Albany came word that Dewey has made up his mind to do plenty of campaigning in states where GOP senate candidates are having rough going. Dewey's aides hinted he will make numerous "rear-platform" appearances in states like Iowa, Colorado, Montana and New Mexico.

GOP strategists are intent on holding their present 51-43 edge in the Senate and widening it wherever possible.

States Righters Want Arkansas to Reject Truman

Marianna, Sept. 16 —(AP)—States Rights Democrats want Arkansas to reject President Truman as the Democratic nominee or charge state party rules to conform to his civil rights "ideology."

A letter asking that Arkansas presidential electors be pledged to the States Rights ticket has been sent to all elected officials and Democratic party nominees in Arkansas by John L. Daggett, Marianna, member of the States Rights Democrats' executive committee.

The Democratic state convention in Little Rock, Sept. 23-24 is to decide how to instruct the state's nine presidential electors.

Daggett, called on the party leaders to help obtain action by the convention pledging Arkansas electors to Governor Strom Thurmond and Fielding Wright, states Rights candidates, "as the only presidential and vice presidential candidates who actively and actually expose the principles and objectives of our party."

If the state convention endorses President Truman "then it must in good conscience, amend and change the declaration of principles and policies to conform with the Truman ideology and platform," Daggett said.

Wallace Backers to Take Court Action

Little Rock, Sept. 16 —(AP)—Henry Wallace's Progressive party will seek a place on the Arkansas ballot through court action.

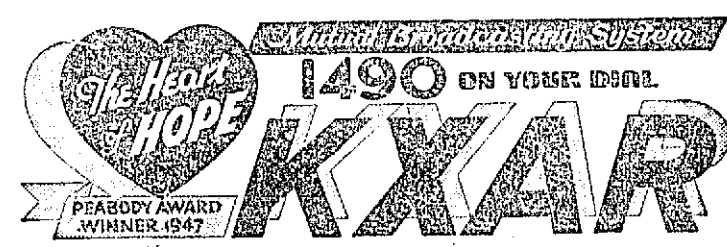

R. W. Tucker of Batesville, Ark., attorney for the Arkansas Wallace committee has been instructed to seek a writ of mandamus in Pulaski circuit court to force Secretary of State C. G. Hall to place Progressive party electors on the ballot.

Petitions seeking to place Progressive Party electors on the ballot as independents were filed Sept. 3 and were rejected by Hall.
